Peters, reaching her whar soon after mid-day, direct from Liverpool, having left October 5th. The Darien brings a good freight and some passengers, and will be immediately discharged and placed on the berth for freight. This vesse: is of substantial construction, and was built at Hartlepool, on the east coast of England, a point now second only to the Clyde in the building of ocean steamers. following preamble and resolutions were offered by the Standing Committee and adopted by the society:

by the society:

Since the last anniversary of the Society the Honorabic James Rose, having nearly completed his four score years, has been removed from this life, and left vacahit the places which he had usefully and honorably filled. He was unong the very oldest members of our venerable Society, having been elected in the year 1816. He also served as president for the usual term, and since 1846 has been one of the Standing Committee. Occupying as he did important and responsible trusts in the community, and distinguished as he was for his attention to the hospitalities of refined society, he was not unmindful of the duties which a delicate charity required, or the claims which want or necessity demanded. It is not too much to say that he "never turned his back on which want or hecessity domainded. It is not too much to say that he "never turned his back on any poor man." His inferest in this Society was shown by the length of time during which he was a member, and was felt by its objects, whenever occasion occurred. It is, therefore, "Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Rose, the Standing Committee of this Society has lost an active, esteemed and valued member. Resolved, That this preamble and these resolutions be communicated to the Society at its next annual meeting; that they be published in the daily papers of the city, and communicated to the family of Mr. Rose, with the assurances of the sincere sympathy of the committee in their bereauement.
